Ascension of Jesus

The story of Jesus returning to heaven after his resurrection is mentioned in the Gospels of Mark and Luke, and in more detail in the book of Acts. Jesus gathered his disciples on the Mount of Olives, commissioned them to spread the Good News of Salvation, promised the gift of the Holy Spirit and rose up to heaven as a cloud took him from view. This was 40 days after his resurrection.

The Church celebrates the Ascension 40 days after Easter Sunday, always on a Thursday. In most of the world Ascension Thursday is a Holy Day of Obligation but in the US most dioceses transfer it to the following Sunday.

The Feast of the Ascension is celebrated in both the Eastern and Western traditions as well as some Protestant churches. Therefore, it is considered one of the universally celebrated feasts in the Christian liturgical calendar (along with Christmas, Easter, Pentecost and the Passion).

It is traditional to eat some kind of bird on the Feast of Ascension in honor of Christ who "flew to heaven." In some places families climb a hill to commemorate Christ and the disciples climbing the Mount of Olives on the day he ascended.

The Novena of Pentecost begins on Ascension Thursday and is referred to as the original novena as it represents the disciples praying for nine days as they waited for the coming of the Holy Spirit on Pentecost.

Father Zack's Corner

When Catholics say, "Mary is our Mother", these are not just empty words. They mean rather that we recognize Mary for who she is and also for her role in the plan of God. That Mary was the mother of Jesus the God-Man is almost universally accepted among all Christians and probably many non-Christians as well.

Looking first at Scripture, the principal basis for the doctrine of Mary as Spiritual Mother of all humanity is found in the Gospel of John. In this scene, Mary is at Calvary at the foot of the Cross with John, the beloved disciple. John tells us, "When Jesus saw his mother, and the disciple whom he loved standing near, he said to his mother, 'Woman, behold your son.' Then he said to the disciple, 'Behold your mother'" (John 19: 26-27). Throughout the Church's history, numerous popes, theologians, and writers have confirmed their belief that here John is symbolic of all humanity. In other words, that Jesus from the Cross gave His Mother to every human person for all time.

Our Lord said, "Behold your mother." He was not suggesting that Mary become our mother, but that Mary is our Mother. And to Mary He gave us as children. But, if this is true, how do we make theological sense of this relationship? Turning again to Scripture, we can best understand it by considering St. Paul's beautiful doctrine of the Mystical Body of Christ (cf. Colossians 1:18, Ephesians 4:15). In this whole Body, St. Paul refers to Christ as the Head and the Church as the Body. Head and Body make up the entire and whole Mystical Body of Jesus Christ.

Now, if we say Mary gave birth to Jesus, the Head of the Body, then it must be that she gave birth to the entire Body since a true body cannot be separated. Thus, it would mean that she gave birth to the members as well. In giving physical birth to Jesus, we can say that Mary made it possible for us to receive spiritual life through Him. We were dead, and through Him we have come back to life. And it was Mary's "yes" at the Annunciation that made our rebirth possible. To question this is to question the plan of God. For it was He who decided from all eternity that it would be so. And the list of those who have believed it is almost endless.

Once we have established that Mary is our true Spiritual Mother, we must ask what this means for us in our everyday lives? What is a mother, anyway? What does a mother do? Why did God arrange it so that every human person would come into the world through a mother? There must be a reason. Does a mother simply give birth to a child only to abandon him or her? Of course she does not. A mother not only gives birth, but she also is given by God so that she might nurture, feed, teach, guide, and protect her child. God entrusts her with these tasks. In the human family, a mother is not optional. So too, in the spiritual family of the Mystical Body of Christ, Mary, our Mother is not optional.

To all the mothers, Happy Mother's Day!
